ASSISTANT MANAGER AT ROYAL HOTEL

Col. H. W. Herndon, Of Enid, Oklahoma, Goes To Huron To Take Position.

F. L. Holbrook, proprietor of the Royal hotel, has secured the services of Col. H. W. Herndon, lately of Enid, Oklahoma, and formerly of Kentucky, to assist him in the management of the hotel. Col. Herndon is a hotel man of many years' experience, and is highly recommended and backed by years of successful hotel management. That he will prove a valuable acquisition to the hotel men of the city and state, goes without saying.

When seen by a Huronite reporter, Col. Herndon expressed himself as greatly surprised in finding so large and so modern and well equipped hotel as the Royal in a city no larger than Huron. "I don't see where the business comes from to support such a hotel. Certainly the people of Huron ought to congratulate themselves on having such a hotel. I never saw its equal in an eastern city of less than 15,000 to 20,000 population and in the southwest, it takes a much larger place than Huron to support such a large hotel. I am happily impressed with Huron and its adjacent country, and I trust that I shall soon become acquainted with your people and like them."

The reporter was impressed with the geniality and versatility of Col. Herndon, and believes that Mr. Holbrook has made a ten-strike in securing him to assist in the management of the Royal.—Daily Huron.

A Brief Word Of Farewell.

Editor:—You will please allow me space in your excellent paper to say a farewell word to my friends in Cloverport. I regret that I did not get to see each one in person.

The cause of my leaving is known to all, and the sudden and unwarned knocking down of my health causing me to have to go at once to another place is a sore disappointment to me. I wish to thank all my friends for expressions of sympathy, words of assurance and substantial remembrance as each of these prove to me that you are friends indeed. These kindnesses add much comfort and enable me to bear patiently this great sorrow.

You will allow me to say the final word to my own beloved congregation. In my busy, happy months I was permitted to be with you. I rejoiced in seeing every department go forward. My pastor ever served a more loyal and devoted people, indeed, I count the best people on earth. I know not how to express my gratitude to the local board and all others who stood nobly by me. All of these and the love and citizenship occupy the warmest place in my affections.

These happy experiences in church work, in the social and fraternal realms will never be erased from my memory. I shall be treasured there as a most precious jewel.

I shall welcome a message in my home from every one of you and kind people.

Sincerely,
J. H. Walker.

New Pastor Arrives.

The Rev. Mr. W. C. Frank arrived from Nashville Saturday to take charge of the Methodist pastorate here. He is a member of the 1913 graduating class of Vanderbilt University. His sermons and service Sunday highly pleased the congregation and the church is delighted to have him. Mrs. Frank will arrive this week. She is an accomplished singer and the young people of the church are anxious to know her. The Rev. Mr. Frank E. Lewis, former pastor of this church, sent a letter to Mr. J. C. Nolte, Saturday, highly recommending the new minister.

A Call For Republicans.

All Republicans in the second Magisterial District are requested to meet in the City Hall, Cloverport on Thursday, June 26th to select candidates for Magistrate and Constable for the Republican primary and to attend to other business.

W. C. Pate, District Chairman.

Fitzgibbon-Murray.

In the presence of only a few invited relatives and friends, Miss Mary Augusta Fitzgibbon, of this city, and Mr. David R. Murray, Jr., of Nashville, Tenn., were quietly married Tuesday afternoon at 2 o'clock by Father Edward J. Lynch at his residence on Second street.

Mr. William T. Long, of Evansville, and Miss Katharine Green, of this city, were the attendants.

Miss Fitzgibbon is one of the best-known and most popular young ladies in the city, having for a number of years been the official court stenographer and was also employed as stenographer for the law firm of Yeaman & Yeaman. The groom is employed as city ticket agent for the L. & N. Railroad Company at Nashville. He formerly held a position here.

The happy, young couple left on the 3:03 southbound L. & N. train for Nashville, where they will make their home.

Mr. Murray is the youngest son of Gen. David R. Murray, formerly of Cloverport, and is a popular representative of this well-known family.—Henderson Journal.

St. Romuald's Commencement.

Hardinsburg, June 22. (Special).—The Commencement exercises of St. Romuald's school took place last Monday night. A large and appreciative audience assembled in the church to witness the closing exercises.

The program was an interesting and varied one, and well rendered, showing the every evidence of careful training on the part of the Sisters, and a hearty response to their efforts on the part of the pupils. A drama, of no little merit, "Crown of Glory," was effectively enacted by the girls, and was enjoyed by all. The music and singing were especially beautiful.

While the final exercises are always meritorious, it is the opinion of many who had the pleasure of witnessing the splendidly rendered program, that none has enlisted the praise and satisfaction to the spectators as did this one at the close of the present term.—Kathleen Hoben.

Farmer's Meeting Notice.

The farmers of the fourth Magisterial district are requested to meet at Bewleyville Saturday, June 28th, at 2:30 p. m. to talk over road improvement. The crusher is now in that district and is anxious to get busy crushing rock for the roads. All farmers and their wives are invited and urged to be present. Mr. Babbage of the Breckenridge News, will be there for the purpose of taking notes and shaking the hands of the farmers on this important movement. Please remember what it takes to make a good county paper, paid up subscriptions, and a lot of them.

How Old Is Your Wagon?

The Breckenridge News has gotten very much interested in road wagons lately. Especially, since it has been advertising the Studebaker wagons. Let us know how old your wagon is and what make it is.

Somewhat a wagon acquires a personality, it stays in a family so long and there must be many, good stories about the old wagons. The Studebaker Company has a contest on and is offering a prize for the oldest Studebaker wagon.

We offer no prizes, but The Breckenridge News shall be pleased to receive some short stories about the old wagons still in use.

Mrs. Randall Ill.

Mrs. James B. Randall is ill at her home in this city. She arrived home Friday night from the East, suffering with a cold which did not develop seriously until Monday evening. Mrs. Walter J. Litter, her friend from Louisville, is here. Wishes that Mrs. Randall may be convalescing soon are being expressed by everyone.

Mr. Jarboe Dead.

Friday morning June 21, at 4 o'clock, Will Jarboe died at his home in Eastland, after a lingering illness. He was the son of Mr. Wat Jarboe. Mr. Jarboe leaves a wife and three children to mourn his death. The funeral service was held at the Catholic church Saturday morning at 7:30 o'clock, after which the remains were laid to rest in the Catholic cemetery.

FAIR CATALOGUE.

Comes From The Press July The First--Breckenridge County's Best Fair--Aeroplanes The New Feature.

The fair catalogue will come from the press of the Breckenridge News July 1. Get one. And you will be more interested than ever in The Breckenridge County Fair.

The Association's seventh annual exhibition will be held August 19, 20, and 21. The new feature will be the aeroplanes. The fair managers have gone to no little pains to get this attraction and it will be well worth the price of the fair.

The ladies are taking an unusual interest in Floral Hall and are already getting their fancy work ready. The exhibition of handiwork is always an inspiration.

The premium list is very attractive to the bird and stock men. And a fine and large show of sheep, cattle and horses is looked forward to by the fair people.

The amusements will be entertaining with fresh lemonade and all pipe features for a jolly, good time. Get a catalogue and see what will be crowded into these three days.

The catalogue is a specimen of excellent work-man-ship of a print shop. Every ad is set with care and distinctive taste. The ink and material is of the highest type and The Breckenridge News is justly proud of the production.

To The Democrats Or The Tenth Senatorial District.

Having been urged by my friends for the last few months to enter the Senate race, I have hoped that I could become a candidate; the principle of Good Government being the controlling force.

Being a farmer, I am interested in the tillers of the soil and anything that tends to the good of agriculture appeals to me and will always have my constant care and earnest consideration.

As a banker, I am as directly interested in the welfare of the farmer as he is in his own interests or pursuits, as ninety-five per cent of my patrons are farmers, and I want to assure you that it is with sincere regret that I cannot arrange my business affairs so that I could serve you. Thanking you for your earnest support proffered. I beg to remain

Yours very truly,
E. H. Shelman.

Hawesville Republicans

Drop Log Cabin

Hawesville, Ky., June 21.—The Standpat and the Republican committees for Hancock county met here today and agreed to fuse for the purposes of the fall election. Neither will go into the August primary and that will be left entirely to the Democrats.

The divided Republicans will abandon, one the log cabin and the other the picture of Roosevelt, and place their ticket under the picture of McKinley. They are to divide the offices in proportion to the votes cast last fall which will give the Standpatters the offices of county judge, county attorney and county superintendent and they have already slated for these G. W. Newman, J. R. Higdon and Herman Rice respectively. The other offices are to go to the Progressives and they have their slate made up except for jailer. There are four candidates for the place, viz., Henderson Johnson, John Swiheart, Warren Keown and Joe Douthitt. The selecting of one of these will be left to the delegates to the nominating convention which will be held here on August 9. The slate for the other offices is as follows: County clerk, Ed N. Lamar; sheriff, Ed F. Ewan; representative, S. B. Lott; assessor, Claude Bowling.

Big Shot Of Squirrel.

S. H. Keith and Prof. Culton made a big shot of squirrel last Wednesday, and consequently the editor of The Breckenridge News had squirrel pie for dinner the next day. Mr. Babbage gets a squirrel treat annually from Mr. Keith, who has been working in the News office ever since he was a boy. Mr. Babbage appreciates his good fortune in being remembered by Mr. Keith, and also having some one at home with a talent to cook squirrel in a most delicious way.

REFUSES TO BURDEN RAILROAD COMPANY

Not Forced To Stop At Every County Seat If Local Trains Sufficient.

Frankfort, Ky., June 12.—The Court of Appeals, in an opinion handed down by Chief Justice Hobson, reversed the decision of the Lyon County Circuit Court, in which a fine of $200 was entered against the Illinois Central for failing to stop a fast passenger train at Eddyville.

A passenger, who was carried to Kuttawa, went before the grand jury under the statute compelling all railroads to stop trains at every county seat and at any point where a penitentiary is or will be located. An indictment was returned.

Justice Hobson, in his opinion, holds that where the service is sufficient with local trains the railroads are within their rights in refusing to stop fast passenger trains at all county seats, especially where it is shown, as in the case at issue, that a local train was to follow the fast train in less than one hour.

Resolutions of Respect.

The following resolutions were unanimously adopted by the Quarterly Conference of the Cloverport station, Owensboro district, Methodist Episcopal church South:

Whereas, Our beloved pastor, Rev. J. H. Walker, has been advised by his physicians that on account of his health he will be compelled to leave this latitude; and Whereas, Bro. Walker has been released from the Cloverport charge.

Resolved, first, That we place on record our appreciation of Bro. Walker's faithful and efficient work during the last nine months. No pastor has given greater satisfaction, both in the pulpit and the pastoral work, in the history of our charge.

Second, That we heartily and unqualifiedly recommend him to our bishops, ministers and members as a faithful and efficient pastor and an earnest and able preacher.

Third, That Bro. Walker and his excellent family will have our sympathies and prayers wherever they may go, and if he recovers his health between now and the sitting of our Conference, we sincerely hope he will be reappointed to the Cloverport station.

Fourth, That a copy of these resolutions be spread upon the Quarterly Conference Record, and that a copy be sent to our church papers for publication.

S. J. Thompson, P. E.

John Burn, Secretary.

H. A. Oelze, Chairman.

Marriage Licenses.

County Clerk Beard says it is never too hot or too dry for the business of matrimony. Following are the names of those made happy in the blissful state since our last report:

J. C. Vickers and Dolly Stanfield; W. H. Duggins and Elton Skaggs; J. A. Lyons and Cantie Morrison; Herman Tanner and Georgia Horseley; Lorenzo B. Dowell and Lula Wood; John P. Howard and Octavia Lee Cheyne; B. B. Henninger and Sallie Frank.

Judge Layman Here.

Judge J. R. Layman, candidate for Circuit Judge of the Ninth Judicial District, was in Cloverport Thursday. He inspected the boat, "The Golden Girl," which came from Owensboro to take a crowd from different points down the river to see Buffalo Bill's show.

"The Golden Girl" was in fine shape and has been ever since it left the hands of the Cloverport foundry December 1911.

"The Golden Girl" was built for Rounds & Jesse, of Owensboro, whom the Cloverport Foundry & Machine Co. is suing for $4,900. The case has been in court since the 28th of February and a decision is hoped for soon by Cloverport people.

Will Canvass Soon.

Andrew Squires candidate for coroner says on account of the illness of his wife he has not been able to make an active canvass. He will be in the field as soon as Mrs. Squires gets better.

Primary Petitions.

J. A. Ater for School Superintendent and J. W. Kennedy for Assessor, filed their petitions last week.

Masonic Banquet Here.

On Wednesday evening June 19th, Mr. Joe H. Ewald, Grand Master of the Grand Lodge of Kentucky, F. & A. M. visited Cloverport Lodge No. 133. The Master Mason's degree was conferred upon T. B. Culton. The Grand Master occupied the W. M. chair and the S. W. and J. W. stations were filled respectively by Jesse Whitworth of Breckenridge Lodge No. 67 and D. C. Heron of Bewleyville Lodge No. 328. The work was put on in a very forcible and impressive manner.

This is the first time that a Grand Master of the State has ever come to Cloverport in his official capacity and it was an occasion that will long be remembered by Cloverport Masons. After adjournment delightful refreshments were served by the Eastern Star ladies, and while this was the last it was by no means the least enjoyable part of the occasion.

Visiting members present were as follows: Joe H. Ewald, Grand Master and member of Hawthorn Lodge No. 716; H. C. Moore, Madisonville No. 113; D. C. Heron, Bewleyville No. 238; R. M. Penick, Custer No. 624; I. Byers, Hopkinsville No. 37; M. M. Groves, Rome No. 133; Mr. Scott, New Albany; Jesse Whitworth, W. S. Ball, F. W. Peyton, A. T. Beard, Breckenridge Lodge No. 67; C. A. Tanner, J. D. Ashcraft, W. S. Arnold; Irvington U. D.; O. W. Dowell, W. L. Milner, W. J. Schopp, C. J. Fella, O. L. Black, C. C. Hamilton, E. H. Miller, Sam H. Dix, R. S. Skillman, Stephensport No. 406; O. S. Flowers, E. O. Kinclad, J. M. Fawver, S. V. Flowers, W. R. Skinner, Joe Midkiff, R. I. Glover, Pellville No. 667; H. L. Schafer, H. L. Jarboe, W. R. Powers, Clarence Demleavy, J. H. Isom, C. F. Mickel, O. E. Mickel, David Voytes, L. L. Demleavy, Floral No. 748.

Makes Own Son Master Mason.

At a meeting of Cloverport Lodge No. 133 F. & A. M. held on Friday evening, Jan. 30th, the Master Mason degree was conferred on W. A. Cockerill. The work was done by Mr. W. H. Cockerill of Robinson Lodge No. 226 of Louisville, Ky. and put on in a very impressive manner. One remarkable feature of the occasion was that Mr. W. H. Cockerill is the father of Mr. W. A. Cockerill and it is very rare that a father ever has the pleasure of making his son, a Master Mason. Mr. Cockerill says that his whole family are now Masons and is very proud that he has brought the last one into the fold.

Declares Increased Dividend.

Hardinsburg, Ky., June 16, 1913.—The board of directors of The Bank of Hardinsburg & Trust Co., held their usual quarterly meeting here today. They declared a dividend of 6 per cent paid to the stock holders out of the earnings of the past six months. This is an advance in the dividend rate from 10 per cent per annum to 12 per cent per annum.

Mr. Herndon, Manager.

Henry W. Herndon, who has been keeping hotel at Enid, Okla., for several years, has accepted a position as manager of Hotel Royal at Huron, South Dakota. In changing his address of The Breckenridge News, Mr. Herndon asked to be remembered to his friends in Kentucky.

More Cars Lighted.

The cars on passenger trains 115 and 146 are lighted by electricity. This new illumination is a delight to the traveling public.

All Day Meeting.

There will be an all day meeting at Norton's Valley church July 4, conducted by the Rev. J. S. Brear. There will be dinner on the ground and a plenty for all who come. Bro. Brear extends a cordial invitation to everybody.

Painful Accident.

Marian Allen suffered great pain Friday when she got a fishing hook caught in her middle right hand finger. She went to Dr. Simons' infirmary and had it removed.

Children's Day Service.

Children's Day will be observed Sunday morning, July 5, at 11 o'clock at the Methodist church. Miss Susette Sawyer is chairman of the committee.

MRS. MEADOR DEAD

Well-Known Young Woman Passes Away After Long Illness--Wife Of Mr. Raymond W. Meador.

Hardinsburg, June 20. (Special).—On June 17, 1913, near the hour of ten o'clock p. m., Mrs. Kate Simmons Meador, wife of Raymond W. Meador, passed from life into death. She was confined to her bed many weeks and was a great sufferer, bearing it all with cheerfulness and a Christian fortitude. She realized that she could not get well, and was prepared for her dissolution. Near the age of fifteen years, during a revival held in Garfield Presbyterian church while Rev. Green Cundiff was pastor, she was converted and joined the Presbyterian church. One year ago she realized she had not lived up to her conversion, and during a meeting held in Custer, she renewed her faith in Christ and so lived until her death.

In 1908, Nov. 3rd, she became the wife of Raymond W. Meador and came to Custer, the home town of her husband, to live, which was her home except for a few months spent in Lake Arthur, New Mexico. She and her husband thinking they could do better in Kentucky than New Mexico, returned to Custer, Ky., and made it their permanent residence; here in her home town, to which she had first come as a stranger, she endeared herself in the hearts of both old and young.

Rev. R. I. Penick conducted the funeral service assisted by Rev. Minor Compton. The text was taken from the twenty-seventh verse of the ninth chapter of Hebrews. "It is appointed unto men once to die, but after that the Judgment." Her remains were interred in the Garfield burying ground. A large crowd attended, being composed of relatives, friends and school mates. She leaves one own brother, Elisha Simmons, Indianapolis, Ind.; and three half brothers, Tab. Simmons, Webster; Albert Simmons, Harned; and James Dowell, California.

Masons Barbecue Soon.

The Cloverport Masons will give their annual Masonic barbecue August 14. This is the red letter day for an all day good time in Cloverport and August would not be welcome without it.

Mr. Boyd Gets Place.

Frank L. Boyd, of Owensboro, was made chief deputy to Internal Revenue Collector Josh T. Griffith. Mr. Boyd has been in the internal revenue service for nearly twenty years and is regarded as an expert and a very valuable man for the place.

Mr. Bartlow Leaves.

H. Bartlow, insurance representative, leaves this week for Hawesville to work for the same company. Mr. Bartlow has taken an active part in church work here and the young people will miss him.

Will Erect Cottage in the Gardner Addition.

C. E. Keith has sold one of his recently purchased lots in the Gardner addition to Lee Owsley, who will erect a cottage residence on it in the future.—Huron News.

Sanitation in Kentucky Schools

By LOGAN D. CHERSON, Jr.

In this world of various obstacles and numerous perplexities, we are being "pinched" on all sides by results of illegitimate causes. There are so many questions before the wandering minds of the people that no question is receiving proper investigation. One theory is advanced and brings about considerable agitation for a time, but the effect is destroyed by the introduction of a different idea. We must cling to a thing until there is nothing of relative importance left. If a proposition is explicitly placed before us and we ascertain no real value therein, let us drop it; but if a proposition of vast importance—a proposition with the word "necessity" written upon the face of it—and one that requires alert judgment and accurate action, then let us consider—let us look into it and see what there is in it for us.

In presenting the subject, Sanitation, the face value is sufficient to engage our immediate attention. To have sanitary conditions prevailing in our schools will mean the building of better moral character, improvement of the intellect, and the prolonging of physical life. How many little children go to school and sit all day in an ill ventilated, dirty, filthy school room. Many diseases originate in such school rooms. The environment is sapping the vitality of the innocent youth. We are responsible, not the infant. Ignorance is such a vice! It is ignorance that causes the major part of the crimes of the country. It is not illiteracy. We know better, but for the sake of a few frivolities, we neglect the paramount duty of our lives—the duty to educate. Ignorance is merely ignoring a thing. Sometimes the very thing that is ignored is an established fact. Illiteracy is knowing no better; having no general knowledge of a thing. Ignorance is a dynamo which generates an electrical current that over powers the minds of the illiterate, careless, indifferent people.

Sanitation must be taught in our public schools if we are to hand down to our posterity healthy, intelligent citizens. All of us can ventilate a room; all of us can use a broom; all of us can use common water. So we have no excuse to be untidy. Plenty of pure water, both on the outside and inside, will produce wholesome effects. Teach the child to drink plenty of pure water, teach him to use plenty of soap—and scrubbing powders—if necessary, to keep his physical clean and healthy. We can do this, can't we? Such is sanitation. We are informed by authentic authority that there are children in our county who attend school and forget to wash their faces before going to school. Such should never be in a country like ours. It's not the child's fault. Because most children like to play in water. It might be on account of the spring being so far from the house and water is scarce, but that is not logical. It is rather presumable at this point that it is negligence, or perhaps, the lack of home training. So we may materially aid the children if we teach them cleanliness, neatness and tidiness.

We have discussed sanitation from a personal standpoint, let us next look into the environment of the school building. If we are located in an unhealthy place, the school yard low and wet, no trees in the yard, out house in such a place as to pollute the soil of the yard and form unpleasant odors and create poisonous germs, we should set to work at once to improve conditions. If you will make the proper endeavor, assistance is near. The source of the drinking water should be looked after and the water tested. No food should be allowed to decay near the building, and if one of the neighbor's old horses dies it should not be dragged into the school yard and allowed to decay. I mean by this that much attention must be given to the care of the yard.

There is a careless way of living, which, in some instances, by mere accident, does not prove to be detrimental to the pursuer. Some people might indulge in every wicked device, drink stagnated water, eat rotten eggs, never bathe and live a century, but such is an accident. There is a scientific way of living by which some fanatics soon perish, but the sound-headed, commonsensical person has more assurance of a long life and a life of felicity that is worth living. Don't be the "old fogey" or the fanatic, but be the "sure-to-win," the medium.

By the efforts that have been put forth in the last few years, the death rate has been decreased several per cent. Let us emphasize the absolute necessity of sanitation in the home, at school and everywhere. The child desires to be clean. He will not go untidy in a tidy room, he won't throw bits of waste material on the clean yard, if you tell him not to; he will put all the waste paper into a box; if you will furnish a box; he will wear clean apparel if he can, provided you do. It's an easy matter to start the child right, if you begin at the right time in the right way. Let us improve sanitation in our schools. It can be done by teaching the child to use water freely; to dress tidily; to be clean at home with milk, water, food, etc., to cultivate a desire for the right sort of living.

Tuberculosis Car.

The Tuberculosis Commission last Thursday engaged the services of Mr. James P. Faulkner, of Berea, to take charge of the traveling exhibit car. Mr. Faulkner has had a wide experience in lecturing on health topics, particularly tuberculosis, in the southeastern part of the state, and has more recently been the editor of the Berea Citizen. He will take charge of the car next week.

The Exhibit Car will be opened to the public for the first time at South Louisville, Tuesday, June 24th, at noon, and will remain in South Louisville for three days. Open from 12 o'clock till 6 o'clock, and from 7:30 o'clock till 9 o'clock.

From South Louisville it will proceed toward Bardonia, Springfield, Lebanon and Greensburg, visiting many of the small intermediate stops for a day. The car will then proceed to the southeast corner of the state. Mr. E. R. Sapp, the Advance Agent of the car, is now making preparation for its appearance in these various towns. Mr. Roy French, the Secretary of the Commission, will be with the car for the first two weeks. Various members of the Commission will also accompany the car for a few days each.

The Commission has decided to engage the services of a visiting nurse to be sent to various cities and counties of the state, for one or more months in

A Severe Sickness Leaves The Kidneys Weak

After recovering from a severe spell of sickness some time ago, I was all run down and suffering from poor blood. I would have pains in my back and hips and my kidneys bothered me all the time. I started taking Swamp-Root upon the recommendation of a friend and found it was just what I needed. My blood became all right and after taking a few bottles, I was surprised at the effect it had on my kidneys. They were entirely cured and I have much to be thankful for that your great remedy did for me.

Yours very truly,
W. O. BLACKMON,

Prove What Swamp-Root Will Do For You

Send to Dr. Kilmer & Co., Binghamton, N. Y., for a sample bottle. It will convince anyone. You will also receive a booklet of valuable information, telling all about the kidneys and bladder. When writing, be sure to mention The Breckenridge News, Cloverport, Ky. Regular fifty-cent and one-dollar size bottles for sale at all drug stores.

Sacrifice Prices —ON— PARRY BUGGIES

Owing to insufficient floor space and storage room, we have decided to sacrifice our line of Parry Buggies and Surries—altho we are in the midst of the selling season and would be able to dispose of our entire stock within a reasonable time—we have determined to sacrifice them rather than run the risk of having to carry any over. Parry Buggies represent the highest ideas of quality and utility, which means you are absolutely safe in buying a buggy which bears this famous brand.

Sale commences this week and lasts until we have disposed of the entire line.

THE TEACHERS' INSTITUTE.

The Breckenridge County Teachers' Institute will be held at Hardinsburg week-after-next, beginning Monday, July 7. The program for the institute is published in detail, and shows all that's educational from A B C's to sanitation and hygiene will be discussed in full.

Mr. Logan Hickerson has a splendid article on "School Sanitation," and every school teacher should carry out his ideas strictly. The school rooms of Breckenridge county certainly need attention, for the majority of them are anything but sanitary.

Mr. Babbage is at Hardinsburg every Monday.

TWENTY GUESTS

From Louisville Entertained Here Sunday-Mr. and Mrs. George Huber, Host and Hostess To A Big Dinner At Their Home In The West End

Mr. and Mrs. George Huber entertained twenty friends from Louisville Sunday, most of them members of a Louisville Men's Club.

The guests were given a big dinner by the host and hostess. It was served in their plum orchard and was a perfect feast. Fourteen fried chickens, country ham, vegetables, cake and ice cream and other good things to eat were served in abundance. Such hospitality has never been shown before in Cloverport. The guests were: Messrs Henry Huber, Mellic Walter, Fred Becker, Fred Meyer, Joe Huber, Tom O'Shauckensky, Bud Ambrem, Will Huber, Mike Dahl, Joe Steerle, John Huber, Charlie Rosenbaum, John Smith, Tom Bohler, Chris Hamman, Miss Laura Graves, Mrs. Amby Daniels, Miss Emma Hamman, Mr. and Mrs. Bud Hoffman, Mr. and Mrs. Will Hollous, Mr. and Mrs. Sam Berry and children, Master Elmer Hoffous, Messrs Wickliffe Moorman, Shelby Conrad, Dick Perkins, Chris Brabant.

Louisville Stock Market.

Owing to the large run of cattle on the market Monday, prices were slow and weak. Strictly choice dry fed butcher cattle were the best sellers, but the prices were 25 cents lower. Choice export steers $7.75 and $8; beef steers $5.50 and $7.50.

The market for calves ruled slow, with the best veals selling at 8 and 8 1/2 cents. Hogs were slow and 5 cents lower, selected corn-fed selling at $8.35 and $8.50. Sheep and lambs were steady, top lambs selling for 7 cents. Fat sheep 4 and 4 1/2 cents.

Mr. J. T. F. Owen, who has been in Louisville for several weeks under the doctor, returned home Monday. While he is weak yet from the operation, he is getting along nicely.

Mr. Babbage is at Irvington every Monday from 4 to 6 p. m.

NATURAL COMPASS IN WOODS

To Those Versed in Woodcraft, Nature Provides Many Guides for the Traveler.

Those well versed in woodcraft point out that even in the "trackless forests" nature provides many natural compasses to keep the traveler straight in his course.

For instance, there is a mature tree that stands apart from its fellows. The bark on this tree will be harder, drier and lighter in color on the south side. On the north it will show a clump of mold or moss. On the south side of the evergreen trees gum will be hard and amber colored. On the north side this gum is softer, generally dustier, and is of a soiled gray hue. Hardwood trees—the oak, the ash, elms, hickories, mesquite, etc.—have moss and mold on the north. Leaves are smaller, tougher, lighter in color and with darker veins on the south. On the north they are longer, of darker green and with lighter veins. Spiders build on the south side. In the south air plants will attach themselves to the north side. Cedars bend their tips to the south.

Sawed or cut stumps will afford one of the compass points, inasmuch as the concentric rings are thicker on the south side. The heart of the stump is thus nearer to the north side. These results are said to be due to the influence of the sun. Stones are bare on the south side, and if they show any moss at all it will be on the north. At best, on the sunny side only a thin covering of harsh, half-dry moss will be found.

SATIRICAL STRAIN OF HUMOR

William Winter Wrote of Edwin Booth's Peculiarities, as He Had Observed Them.

At times Booth's humor was satirical. When leaving a church in Boston after the funeral of the eminent essayist and critic, Edwin Percy Whipple—obseques which he had attended in company with Lawrence Barrett, and at that friend's suggestion, and during which he had been annoyed as well as amused by the convulsive facial contortions of the officiating clergyman—he remarked to Barrett:

"I knew Mr. Whipple, but I never expected I should be so sorry to attend his funeral."

When a stage-struck lunatic named Mark Gray attempted to murder him in Chicago at a performance of "King Richard II." (April 2, 1879, at MeVicker's theater), firing at him twice with a pistol from a place in the second balcony, Booth calmly advanced to the front of the stage and, pointing at the madman, directed that he be seized, and then after a brief absence from the scene, to reassure his wife, composedly finished his performance. Later he caused one of the bullets to be extracted from a piece of scenery where it had lodged, and had it mounted as a charm for his watch chain, inscribed: "To Edwin Booth from Mark Gray." That sinister relic he customarily wore.—William Winter in Collier's Weekly.

Just an Indian Story.

Tourists visiting most cities of the United States are the objects of many quips and jests gotten off at their expense by megaphone men accompanying sight-seeing autos.

The latter part of January a party was being taken through one of the prettier streets of Jacksonville, Fla.

The street car tracks are in the center of this thoroughfare and small parking places are between the car lines and the driveways.

In these parking plots are hundreds of large palmettos. These plants are replaced by the city year by year as they die or become injured in any manner.

"Oh, the beautiful palms!" exclaimed a comely matron considerably under thirty.

"I do wonder how they came here?" was the query propounded by another woman tourist.

"Lady, those palms were planted there by the Indians over 200 years ago," said the speaker of the party.

The women gasped with amazement, while the men members of the party suppressed their smiles.

Jeremiah Walters.

Cannelton, Ind., June 22.—Probably no other man in Perry county had entertained as many politicians and candidates at his table as Jeremiah Walters, 70, who has just died of stomach trouble after a brief illness in his country home. "Lilly Dale," was almost the exact geographical center of the county, and in its large grove had been held almost all the Democratic mass conventions of the last twenty-five years besides many important preliminary meetings.

Resolutions Adopted By Breckenridge County Republican Committee.

Whereas, our Federal Congress has enacted a law known as the corrupt practices act, which governs and regulates the use of money in federal elections, and thereby largely eliminates corrupting influences, which law was advocated and supported by all political parties; such a state law was advocated by the platform of both of the old parties, and their candidates in the last campaign for state offices, though defeated by a democratic legislature. Resolutions have been adopted by various county committees, of all political parties, requiring candidates, seeking nominations in the coming August primary to sign pledges to use no money nor whiskey, and

Whereas, the traffic in votes by the use of money and whiskey is a disgrace to our citizenship, a menace to our republican institutions and representative government, a blight on our civilization, a violation of the laws of God and man, it corrupts and demoralizes our citizens, our officers and our government and is a reproach to our community. It is largely the source of all of our civic evils and many of our social crimes.

Therefore Be It Resolved: That we the Republican Committee, of Breckenridge County, urge, recommend and insist that no candidate seeking a republican nomination in the coming primary, use either money or whiskey or other corrupting influences, and they are hereby required to sign a pledge to this effect.

Be It Further Resolved: That the Democratic County Committee and democratic candidates, who may be nominated in the coming primary, be invited to join this committee and the republican candidates, who may be nominated in said primary, to insist on agreements and secure pledges of all candidates, of all parties, to not use any of these methods, neither money nor whiskey in the regular November election, for county offices, and that we take such steps as will guarantee a compliance with these resolutions.

Sunny South Show Boat.
 The famous Sunny South will present "The Hidden Hand," a play that meets with general satisfaction. The story was written by Mrs. D. E. N.
 Southworth for a purpose which is filled. It is one of the strongest stories ever written, and moreover it possesses none of the questionable suggestions which many authors have felt bound to introduce in stories of human life. You will be fascinated by the capricious
 "Capitola" and interested in the strongest character of "Black Donald."
 It was in the latter character that John Wilkes Booth won fame as an actor.

CHAPTER XV.

IN a daze, Speed saw his friend mount the porch painfully; in a daze, he shook his hand. Subconsciously he beheld Lawrence Glass come panting into view, throw up his hands in sight of Covington, and cry out in a strange tongue. When he regained his faculties he broke into the conversation harshly.

"What have you done to yourself?"

"I broke a toe," explained the athlete.

"You broke a toe?"

"He broke a toe!" wailed Glass, faintly.

"If it's nothing but a toe, it won't hurt your running." Speed seized eagerly upon the faintest hope.

"No. I'll be all right in a few weeks." Covington spoke carelessly, his eyes bent upon Jean Chapin.

"You've got to run to-morrow."

"What!" Covington dragged his glance away from the cheeks of his sweetheart.

"I'm sick. You'll have to."

"Don't be an idiot, Wally. I can't walk!"

Helen explained, with pride of one displaying her own handiwork: "Mr. Speed defends the Flying Heart to-morrow. You are just in time to see him."

"When did you learn to box, Wally?"

Covington was genuinely amazed.

"I'm not going to box. It's a foot-race. I'm training—been training ever since I arrived."

In his bewilderment the late-comer might have unwittingly betrayed his friend had not Jean suddenly inquired:

"Where is Roberta?"

"Roberta!" Covington tripped over one of his crutches. "Roberta who?"

"Why, Roberta Keap, of course! She's chaperoning us while mother is away."

The hero of countless field-days turned pale, and seemed upon the point of hobbling back to "Nigger Mike's" buckboard.

"You and she are old friends, I believe?" Helen interposed.

"Yes! Oh, yes!" Culver flashed his chum a look of dumb entreaty, but Speed was staring round-eyed into space, striving to read the future.

Helen started to fetch her just as the pallid chaperon was entering the door.

She shook hands with Covington. She observed that he was too deeply affected at sight of her to speak, and it awakened fresh misgivings in her mind.

"How d'y do! I didn't know you were—here!" he stammered.

"I thought it would surprise you!" Roberta smiled wanly, amazed at her own self-control, then froze in her tracks as Jean announced:

"Jack will be home to-night, Culver. He'll be delighted to see you!"

J. Wallingford Speed offered a diversion by bursting into a hollow laugh. Now that the world was in league to work his own downfall, it was time some one else had a touch of suffering.

To this end he inquired how the toe had come to be broken.

"I broke it in Omaha—automobile accident." Culver was fighting to master himself.

"Omaha! Did you stop in Omaha?" inquired Jean.

"A city of beautiful women," Speed reflected, audibly. "Somebody step on your foot at a dance?"

"No, of course not! I don't know

Covington Hobbled Forward on Crutches.

anybody in Omaha! I went motor-ing—"

"Joy-ride?"

"Not at all."

"Who was with you?" Miss Chapin's voice was ominously sweet.

"N—nobody I knew."

"Does that mean that you were alone?"

"Yes. I stopped off between trains to view the city, and took a 'Seeing Omaha' ride. The yep wagon upset, and—I broke my toe."

"You left Chicago ten days ago," said Speed accurately.

"Of course, but—when I broke my toe I had to stay. It's a beautiful city—lots of fine buildings."

"How did you like the jail?"

"What in the world are you boys talking about?" queried Miss Blake.

"Mr. Speed seems amused at Culver's accident." Roberta gave him a stinging look. "Now we'd better let Culver go to his room and freshen up a bit. I want to talk to you, Helen."

and Speed drooped at the meaning behind her words. But it was time for a general conference; events were shaping themselves too rapidly for him to cope with. Once the three were alone he lost no time in making his predicament known, the while his friend listened in amazement.

"But is it really so serious?" the latter asked, finally.

"It's life or death. There's a homicidal maniac named Willie guarding me daytimes, and a pair of renegades who keep watch at my window all night. The cowboys bathe me in tea-water to toughen me, and feed me raw meat to make me wild. In every corner there lurks an assassin with orders to shoot me if I break training, everywhere I go some low-browed criminal feels my biceps, pinches my legs, and asks how my wind is. I tell you, I'm going mad."

"And the worst part of it is," spoke Glass, sympathetically, "they'll bump me off first. It's a pipe."

"But, Wally, you can't run."

"Don't I know it?"

"Don't I know it?"

"Don't I know it?"

"Don't I know it?"

"Don't I know it?"

"Don't I know it?"

"Don't I know it?"

"Don't I know it?"

"Don't I know it?"

"Don't I know it?"

"Don't I know it?"

"Don't I know it?"

Again Speed donned his running suit and took to the road for his farewell practice. Again Willie followed at a distance on horseback, watching the hills warily. But all hope had fled from the Yale man now, and he returned to his training-quarters disheartened, resigned.

He was not resigned, however, to the visit he received later from Miss Helen Blake. That young lady rushed in upon him like a miniature cyclone, sweeping him off his feet by the fury of her denunciation, allowing him no opportunity to speak, until, with a half-sob, she demanded:

"Why—why did you deceive me?"

"I love you!" Wally said, as if no further explanation were necessary.

"That explains nothing. You made sport of me! You couldn't love me and do that!"

"Helen!"

"I thought you were so fine, so strong, but you lied—yes, that is what you did! You fibbed to me the first day I met you, and you've been fibbing ever since. I could never, never care for a man who would do that."

"What has told you these things?"

"Roberta, for one. She opened my eyes to your—baseness."

"Well, Roberta has a grudge against my sex. She's engaged to all the men she hasn't already married. Marriage is a habit with her. It has made her suspicious—"

"But you did deceive me, didn't you?"

"Will you marry me?" asked J. Wallingford Speed.

"The ideal!" Miss Blake gasped.

"Will you?"

"Please don't speak that way. When a man cares for a woman, he doesn't deceive her—he tells her everything. You told me you were a great runner, and I believed you. I'll never believe you again. Of course, I shall behave to you in a perfectly friendly manner, but underneath the surface I shall be consumed with indignation."

Miss Blake commenced to be consumed.

"See! You don't acknowledge your perjury even now."

"What's the use? If I said I couldn't run, and then beat the clock, you'd believe I deceived you again. And suppose that I can't beat him?"

"Then I shall know they have told me the truth."

"And if, on the other hand, I should win—Miss Blake's eyes fell—"Helen, would you marry me?" Speed started toward her, but she had fled out into the twilight.

Dusk was settling over stretches of purple land, and already the room was peopled by shadows. Work was over; there were sounds of cheerful preparations for supper; from the house came faint chords of laughter.

It was the hush that precedes the evening as it does the dawn; the hour of reverie, in which all music is sweet, and forgotten faces arise to haunt.

Speed stood where the girl had left him, miserable, hopeless, helpless. And certainly his love was lost. He had stayed on in the stubborn superstitious belief that something would surely happen to relieve him from his predicament—fortune had never failed him before—and instead, every day, every incident, had served to involve him deeper. Now she knew! It was her golden heart that had held her true thus far, but could any devotion survive the sight of humiliation such as he would suffer on the morrow? Already he heard the triumphant jeers of the Centipede henchmen, the mocking clamor of the Flying Heart, the mocking laughter of his rival.

He groaned aloud. Forsooth, a broken toe! Of all the countless tens of thousands of toes in Christendom, the one he had hung his salvation upon had proven weaker than a reed. What cruel jest of Fate was this? If Fate had wished to break a toe why had she not selected, out of all the billions at her disposal, that of some other athlete than Culver Covington—even his own.

J. Wallingford Speed started suddenly and paled. He had remembered that no one could force a crippled man to run.

"By Jove," he exclaimed, "I'll do it!"

He crossed quickly to the bunk-house door and looked in. The room was empty. The supper-bell pealed out, and he heard the cow-men answer it. Now was the appointed moment; he might have no other. With cat-like tread he slipped into the sleeping-quarters, returning in a moment with a revolver. He stared thickly at the weapon—better this than dishonor.

"Why didn't I think of it before? It's perfectly simple. I'll accidentally shoot myself—in the foot!"

But even as he gazed at the gun he saw that the muzzle was as large as a gopher-hole. A bullet of that size would sink a shin be meditated in a panic, and as for his foot—what frightful execution it would work! But—it were better to lose a foot than a foot race, under present conditions, so he began to unlace his shoe. Then real-izing the value of circumstantial evidence, he paused. No! His disabilities must bear all the earmarks of an accident. He must guess the location of his smallest and least important toe, and trust the rest to his marksmanship. Visions of blood-poisoning beset him, and when he pressed the muzzle against the point of his shoe his hand shook with such a palsy that he feared he might miss. He stooped himself with the thought that other men had snuffed out life itself in this manner, then sat down upon the floor and cocked the weapon a second time. He wondered if the shock might, by any chance, numb him into unconsciousness. If so, he might bleed to death before assistance arrived. But he had nothing to do with that. The only question was, which foot. He regarded them both tenderly. They were nice feet, and had done him many favors. He loved every toe; they were almost like innocent children. It was a dastardly deed to take advantage of them thus, but—he advanced the revolver until it pressed firmly against the outside of his left foot, then closed his eyes, and called upon his courage. There came a great roaring in his ears.

How long he sat thus waiting for the explosion he did not know, but he opened his eyes at length to find the foot still intact, and the muzzle of the weapon pointing directly at his instep. He altered his aim hurriedly, when, without warning of any sort, a man's figure appeared silhouetted against the window.

The figure dropped noiselessly to the floor inside the room, and cried, in a strange voice:

"Lock those doors! Quick!"

Finding that it was no hallucination, Speed rose, calling out:

"Who are you?"

"Sh-h-h!" The stranger darted across the room and bolted both doors, while the other felt a chill of apprehension at these sinister precautions. He grasped his revolver firmly while his heart thumped. The fellow's appearance was anything but reassuring: he was swarthy and sun-browned, his clothes were ragged, his overalls were patched; instead of a coat, he wore a loosely flapping vest over a black sateen shirt, long since rusted out to a nondescript brown.

"I've been trying to get to you for a week," announced the mysterious visitor hoarsely.

"What do you want? Who are you?"

"I'm Skinner, cook for the Centipede."

"Not so loud." Skinner was strained, ch? Who is boss here, I'd like to know?"

"They've bet a lot of money. And you know how they feel about that phonograph."

"It's the most idiotic thing I ever heard of. Whatever possessed you, Wally? If the men make a row, I'll have to smuggle you and Glass over to the railroad to-night."

"I'm for that," came the voice of Larry.

"I suppose it's all my fault," Miss Blake began wretchedly, whereat the object of their general soliloquy took on an aspect of valor.

"Say, what is all this fuss about? I don't want to be smuggled anywhere, thank you!"

"I may not be able to square my men," Chapin reiterated. "It may have gone too far."

"Square! Square! Why should you do any squaring? I'm not going to run away." Miss Blake clasped her hands and breathed a sigh. "I've got to stay here and run a foot-race to-morrow."

"Don't be a fool, Wally!" Covington added his voice to the others.

Speed whirled angrily. "I don't need your advice—convict!" The champion hobbled instantly out of range. "I know what I'm doing. I'm going to run to-morrow, and I stand a good chance to win."

Mr. Fresno, if he had been a girl, would have been said to have giggled.

"All right, dearie! I'll bet you five hundred dollars—as there emerged from the darkness, whence they had approached unseen, Stover, and behind him the other men.

"Evening! What's all the excitement?" greeted the leader, softly.

The master of the ranch stepped forward.

"See here, Bill, I'm sorry, but I won't stand for this foot-race."

"Why not?" queried the foreman.

"I just won't, that's all. You'll have to call it off."

"I'm sorry, too."

"You refuse?" The owner spoke ominously.

"You bet he does!" Willie pushed himself forward. "This foot-race is ordained, and it comes off on time. I make bold to inquire if you're talking for our runner?"

"Gentlemen, I can only say to you that for myself I want to run!" declared Speed.

"Then you'll run."

"I refuse to allow it," Chapin declared, and instantly there was an angry murmur; but before it could take definite shape, Speed spoke up with equal decisiveness.

"You can't refuse to let me run, Jack. There are reasons"—he searched Miss Blake's countenance—"why I must run—and win. And win I shall!"

Turning, he stalked away into the darkness, and there followed him a shout of approbation from the ranchmen.

Jack Chapin threw up his hands.

"I've done my best."

"The man's mad!" cried Covington.

panic, and as for his foot—what frightful execution it would work! But—it were better to lose a foot than a foot race, under present conditions, so he began to unlace his shoe. Then realizing the value of circumstantial evidence, he paused. No! His disabilities must bear all the earmarks of an accident. He must guess the location of his smallest and least important toe, and trust the rest to his marksmanship. Visions of blood-poisoning beset him, and when he pressed the muzzle against the point of his shoe his hand shook with such a palsy that he feared he might miss. He stooped himself with the thought that other men had snuffed out life itself in this manner, then sat down upon the floor and cocked the weapon a second time. He wondered if the shock might, by any chance, numb him into unconsciousness. If so, he might bleed to death before assistance arrived. But he had nothing to do with that. The only question was, which foot. He regarded them both tenderly. They were nice feet, and had done him many favors. He loved every toe; they were almost like innocent children. It was a dastardly deed to take advantage of them thus, but—he advanced the revolver until it pressed firmly against the outside of his left foot, then closed his eyes, and called upon his courage. There came a great roaring in his ears.

How long he sat thus waiting for the explosion he did not know, but he opened his eyes at length to find the foot still intact, and the muzzle of the weapon pointing directly at his instep. He altered his aim hurriedly, when, without warning of any sort, a man's figure appeared silhouetted against the window.

The figure dropped noiselessly to the floor inside the room, and cried, in a strange voice:

"Lock those doors! Quick!"

Finding that it was no hallucination, Speed rose, calling out:

"Who are you?"

"Sh-h-h!" The stranger darted across the room and bolted both doors, while the other felt a chill of apprehension at these sinister precautions. He grasped his revolver firmly while his heart thumped. The fellow's appearance was anything but reassuring: he was swarthy and sun-browned, his clothes were ragged, his overalls were patched; instead of a coat, he wore a loosely flapping vest over a black sateen shirt, long since rusted out to a nondescript brown.

"I've been trying to get to you for a week," announced the mysterious visitor hoarsely.

"What do you want? Who are you?"

"I'm Skinner, cook for the Centipede."

"Not so loud." Skinner was strained, ch? Who is boss here, I'd like to know?"

"They've bet a lot of money. And you know how they feel about that phonograph."

"It's the most idiotic thing I ever heard of. Whatever possessed you, Wally? If the men make a row, I'll have to smuggle you and Glass over to the railroad to-night."

"I'm for that," came the voice of Larry.

"I suppose it's all my fault," Miss Blake began wretchedly, whereat the object of their general soliloquy took on an aspect of valor.

"Say, what is all this fuss about? I don't want to be smuggled anywhere, thank you!"

"I may not be able to square my men," Chapin reiterated. "It may have gone too far."

"Square! Square! Why should you do any squaring? I'm not going to run away." Miss Blake clasped her hands and breathed a sigh. "I've got to stay here and run a foot-race to-morrow."

"Don't be a fool, Wally!" Covington added his voice to the others.

Speed whirled angrily. "I don't need your advice—convict!" The champion hobbled instantly out of range. "I know what I'm doing. I'm going to run to-morrow, and I stand a good chance to win."

Mr. Fresno, if he had been a girl, would have been said to have giggled.

"All right, dearie! I'll bet you five hundred dollars—as there emerged from the darkness, whence they had approached unseen, Stover, and behind him the other men.

"Evening! What's all the excitement?" greeted the leader, softly.

The master of the ranch stepped forward.

"See here, Bill, I'm sorry, but I won't stand for this foot-race."

"Why not?" queried the foreman.

"I just won't, that's all. You'll have to call it off."

"I'm sorry, too."

"You refuse?" The owner spoke ominously.

"You bet he does!" Willie pushed himself forward. "This foot-race is ordained, and it comes off on time. I make bold to inquire if you're talking for our runner?"

"Gentlemen, I can only say to you that for myself I want to run!" declared Speed.

"Then you'll run."

"I refuse to allow it," Chapin declared, and instantly there was an angry murmur; but before it could take definite shape, Speed spoke up with equal decisiveness.

"You can't refuse to let me run, Jack. There are reasons"—he searched Miss Blake's countenance—"why I must run—and win. And win I shall!"

Turning, he stalked away into the darkness, and there followed him a shout of approbation from the ranchmen.

Jack Chapin threw up his hands.

"I've done my best."

"The man's mad!" cried Covington.

"Studebaker wagons certainly last a long time"

"I have had this wagon twenty-two years, and during that time it cost me only $6.00 for repairs, and that was for setting two tires."

"And after twenty-two years of daily use in good and bad weather and over all kinds of roads, I will put this wagon against any new wagon of another make that you can buy today."

"Studebaker wagons are built of air-dried lumber and tested iron and steel. Even the paint and varnish are subjected to a laboratory test to insure wearing qualities."

"No wagon made is subjected to as many tests or is more carefully made than a Studebaker. You can buy them of Studebaker dealers everywhere."

"Don't listen to the dealer who wants to sell you a cheap wagon, represented to be 'just as good' as a Studebaker."

Farm wagons, trucks, dump wagons and carts, delivery wagons, buggies, surreys, and harness of all kinds of the same high standard as the Studebaker vehicles.

LODIBURG.

Mr. Lee Bruner, of Frymore, visited Mrs. Ed Krons last Sunday.

Mrs. Alaska Hardin and baby, of St. Louis, have arrived for an indefinite visit with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Ben Hardin. Alaska and sister, Annie Lee, will be in sometime in the near future. The visitations they have will not give them a vacation until July or August.

Mr. and Mrs. Owen Keys and son Albert, of West Point, and Mr. and Mrs. Hewitt Payne, of Mystic, were guests of Mr. and Mrs. Allen Bandy Saturday.

Will Dotson, of Frymore, and Miss Bertie Beards, of Hardinsburg, Roscoe Keys and Miss Eula Adkins, of Rhodolia, were the dinner guests of Miss Anna Hardin last Sunday.

Miss Lizzie Orenduff, of Webster, is the guest of Mrs. Jess Payne.

Mrs. Ida Nottingham visited her uncle, J. Dutschke, of Holt, Saturday and Sunday.

The ice cream supper given by Sam Brown last Saturday night was quite a success.

Peaton Claycomb and Jess Miller, candidates for Representative, were in our town last week.

Mrs. Ida Nottingham attended the ice cream supper at Stephensport, and was the guest of Mrs. Lute Roberts.

Take Plenty of Time to Eat.

There is a saying that "rapid eating is slow suicide." If you have formed the habit of eating too rapidly you are most likely suffering from indigestion or constipation, which will result eventually in serious illness unless corrected. Digestion begins in the mouth. Food should be thoroughly masticated and unsalivated. Then when you have a fullness of the stomach or feel dull and stupid after eating, take one of Chamberlain's Tablets. Many severe cases of stomach trouble and constipation have been cured by the use of these tablets. They are easy to take and most agreeable in effect. Sold by all dealers.

HARNED NEWS.

Victor Beauchamp left Tuesday for Chicago where he will make his home.

Our hearts were made sad to learn of the death of Mrs. Dr. Raymond Meador, of Custer, as she was well known in our town, having been here often visiting friends and relatives. Among those who attended the funeral at Garfield from this place were: Mr. and Mrs. Bruce Moorman, Mrs. Steve Davis, Misses May Pile and Bessie B. Weatherford.

Misses Nannie and Myrtle Beauchamp left Tuesday for California to be with their sister, Mrs. Joel Gillingwaters, who is in ill health. We regret to give up these girls, but wish them success in their future home.

Miss Isabell Moorman and Mrs. Bruce Moorman were in Hardinsburg Thursday.

THOSE SUDDEN TWINGES

Bring Suffering To Many A Cloverport Reader.

Pain is nature's signal of distress. A warning not to be ignored. Those sharp twinges in the back—those sudden, stab-like pains when stooping.

Are frequent signs of kidney trouble. Signs that must not be neglected. To remove kidney pains, you must assist the kidneys.

Use a tested and proven kidney remedy.

None more highly endorsed than Doan's Kidney Pills.

J. A. Baird, farmer, R. F. D. No. 5, Hartford, Ky., says: "I used only one box of Doan's Kidney Pills, but that was all I needed to cure me of kidney weakness. For some time, I had been troubled with sharp twinges across my loins and other symptoms of kidney complaint. As I heard Doan's Kidney Pills highly recommended, I got a supply and was cured."

PLANTS POISONOUS

Agricultural Experiment Station
Examine Plants That Caused
Death of Hardinsburg Boy—
Plant of Many Names.

A letter from the Agricultural Experiment Station of the State University of Kentucky division of Entomology and Botany is as follows:

Mr. Taylor Beard, Hardinsburg, Ky., Dear Sir: In reply to your communication addressed to the Experiment Station transmitting specimens of two plants, one of which is believed to have caused the death of a boy, I have to say that the plants are the following:

1. Water hemlock (cicuta maculata), a well known poisonous plant to which the following names are applied: Wild hemlock, snakeweed, beaver poison, spotted hemlock, cowbane, children's bane, death-of-man, etc. The poisonous principle is found in the leaves, seeds and stem, but chiefly in the roots. The latter are sometimes eaten by children who mistake them for horseradish, parsnips, or other harmless plants. The symptoms of hemlock poisoning are: Vomiting, staggering, unconsciousness, convulsions, followed frequently by death. The plant is regarded as the most poisonous of any occurring in this country.

Prickly lettuce (hettia scariola), a common weed in Kentucky, but not as far as known to me, poisonous.

Yours very truly,

H. Garman.

AILING WOMEN OF MIDDLE AGE

Mrs. Hilbert Tells of Her Distressing Symptoms During Change of Life and How She Found Relief.

Fleetwood, Pa.—"During the Change of Life I was hardly able to be around at all. I always had a headache and I was so dizzy and nervous that I had no rest at night. The flashes of heat were so bad sometimes that I did not know what to do."

"One day a friend advised me to take Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and it made me a strong well woman. I am very thankful that I followed my friend's advice and I shall recommend it as long as I live. Before I took the Compound I was always sickly and now I have not had medicine from a doctor for years. You may publish my letter."—Mrs. EDWARD B. HILBERT, Fleetwood, Pa.

Such warning symptoms as sense of suffocation, hot flashes, headaches, backaches, dread of impending evil, timidity, sounds in the ears, palpitation of the heart, sparks before the eyes, irregularities, constipation, variable appetite, weakness and inquietude, and dizziness, are promptly heeded by intelligent women who are approaching the period in life when woman's great change may be expected.

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound invigorates and strengthens the female organism and builds up the weakened nervous system. It has carried many women safely through this crisis.

PAPER BAG COOKING

Great System Perfected by M. Soyer, Famous London Chef.

ITS MANY ECONOMIES.

By Martha McCulloch Williams.

A dollar's worth of paper bags will be ample to cook for any average family throughout a month. Add a box of clips at ten cents—they will be good for another month, and still another in careful hands—and the outlay is still inconsiderable. Add still further fifty cents for greasing—a pound of lard, half a pound of butter, half a pound of drippings—and the total is still more than moderate. Notwithstanding, it is more than plenty of us would care to spend monthly merely in the interest of flavor or even of ease. Plenty more of us like to take duties laboriously, feeling that thus we win to the kingdom of thrift. So if there were no economic offset, paper bag cooking would have to be reckoned either a fad or a luxury. It is neither—it has come to stay.

Say you pay three to four dollars a month for gas—which is about a fair average. If the paper bag cooking cuts this a third, it has almost paid for itself at one fell swoop.

Next comes the saving in quantity of food cooked. Paper bag cooking is one-fifth to one-fourth ahead there. In pot cooking the scales show a shrinkage treble that of bag cooking. This is a saving well worth while, yet far from telling the whole story. Things bag-cooked nourish better because they are more readily digested.

Set this extra nourishment at one-tenth of the food cost, and the food cost for a family ten dollars a week. Right there you have more the price of bags, grease, clips, etc.—almost the cost of the gas.

But even then the sum in domestic economy is just fairly begun. Paper bag cooking not only saves thus negatively by preventing loss and insuring full edibility, but positively—and in many, many ways, as, for example, in the food bought. Round steak is more nourishing than any other—but the fact has been held to be offset by the extra dentist's bill the eating of it necessitated. Paper bag cooking makes it as tender as porterhouse itself—moreover, there is no bone to be thrown away—nothing but clear meat. And the favorable difference in price runs from eight to ten cents the pound.

Living is dearer in every way—the one possible alleviation of this increasing cost, without skimping of appetites, is in buying things less costly and so cooking them as to make the difference all in their favor.

Paper bag cooking will do it; it has done it for me. Let's recapitulate. Say one uses one hundred and fifty bags in the month, and then allow seventy-five cents for clips, lard, butter, and dripping. This gives an initial debit of two dollars beginning the account thus:

DEBIT.
Paper bags, butter, clips, one month	$2.00
CREDIT.
Gas saved	$1.00
Saved in wear and tear (5 per cent)	.50
Food saved ($1.00 a week)	$1.00
Saved on meat (75 cents week)	$3.00

Roast Ducks, Banana Stuffing. Wash your ducks well inside with cold salt water—if they are wild ducks let them lie in the salt water for fifteen minutes. Drain, wipe dry inside and out, and season very lightly with salt and paprika inside, sprinkling black pepper on the outside. Set on ice while you make a stuffing of bananas cut in small cubes, mixed with their own bulk of toasted bread crumbs and seasoned with salt, black pepper, a little chopped celery and plenty of cold butter. Stuff the ducks lightly, truss firmly, grease well all over and tie thin bacon over the breasts. Put in a well greased bag, fitting them close together. Add the juice of a lemon, a wineglass of either claret or sherry, seal bag and cook in a hot oven ten minutes, then slack heat, and finish—it ought to require about forty minutes more.

PASTRY.

By Nicolae Soyer, Chef of Brooks' Club, London.

Pastry, cakes and sweets generally are wonderfully improved by being cooked in paper bags. The concentration of heat which is thus gained has the effect of making the puff paste lighter and more regular in texture and all cake mixtures "rise" in a manner the oven cannot produce.

Then again the cooking takes much less time, and I need not point out the value of this. In the old style the oven door had frequently to be opened to watch progress. The pastry was thus exposed to draughts of cool air, which could but produce "doughy," heavy and unsatisfactory results.

Puff Paste: Take one pound flour, three-quarters of a pound butter, and mix the flour with water and salt lightly, to the consistency of butter. Leave this dough for half an hour, then flatten it with your hand, and lay your butter on top of the paste. Then fold four-corner way, and give it two rolls as usual. Leave your paste in a cool place for forty-five minutes, then roll twice more. Leave it for forty-five minutes, and roll twice again. Place it in a larger paper bag which will not touch the paste. Put on broiler and allow twenty minutes in a hot oven.

A FARM CHEAP AND WHY IT IS CHEAP!

- FIRST—Because it is a good farm, fertile land, lays well, slightly rolling, does not wash; nearly every acre is tillable; it has southern exposure; it will produce crops from two to four weeks earlier than land lying on northern hill side.
- SECOND—It is in the garden spot of Breckinridge county; land on all sides sells from $35 to $40 an acre.
- THIRD—It is near the railroad.
- FOURTH—It grows wheat, corn, tobacco oats, cow pens clover, all kinds of grass.
- FIFTH—It contains 300 acres and is cheap. It will produce in one year, if rightly farmed, nearly half its cost. Labor plentiful and cheap. Write
